Wimberly Interiors, the interior design studio of WATG, recently opened a new office in Singapore, adjacent to WATG's existing planning, architectural and landscape studios. The opening of the new space supports the company's ambitious plans for growth in the Asian market.

The new clean, contemporary space is akin to an artist's loft, with a spacious, open plan layout and natural daylight that floods through panoramic windows. The open plan fosters creativity, collaboration and social interaction within an agile work environment.

Schiavello's Singapore team worked with Wimberly Interiors to develop a furniture solution for the front of house, working studio and conference room. The team worked in close collaboration to understand the designer's requirements from an aesthetic, strategic, and budgetary point of view, and to develop an ideal solution. Custom Centric workstations with supporting storage units in a workbench configuration proved to be an effective and simple solution for the studio. Humanscale products including the Diffrient World Chair, Freedom Headrest and M8 Monitor Arms, provide leading ergonomic support at each work point. Tecno's classic five star swivel chair, Modus 5, is used in the conference room, adding a simple, attractive seating solution with a porcelain-like sheen, and exceptional versatility.

The new Wimberly Interiors space in Singapore's Queenstown District is set to inspire and empower the design team as they continue on a path of growth and leadership in Asia.
